- Connect with the Alumni Office to stay involved after graduation.
- Build a network with alumni, faculty, staff, and classmates.

Emerging Media

Why major in Emerging Media?

Studying media from historical, cultural, and ethical perspectives develops a strong understanding of media's role in our lives and society. This increase in media literacy along with experiences gained in graphic design, photography, videography, UX & UI design, social media analytics, and data visualization prepares you as an Emerging Media major to excel when joining the workforce. Majoring in Emerging Media prepares you to think critically about both media creation and media consumption. You will develop the high-demand skills employers desire in the fields of journalism, public relations, advertising, and many other professions.
