Hanna Hall is a junior nursing major currently working as a patient care technician at Aiken Regional Medical Centers.

"The nursing program has instilled in me a solid base in nursing fundamentals. I have been able to take practices learned throughout the program into the healthcare field while caring for patients, not just COVID-19 patients. It has been an honor being able to help fight the pandemic, and the experiences related to it have been life-changing. Now I know I am in the right profession because there is nothing else I would rather do."
