Reader Response Journal

Directions and suggestions for writing in the journal.
1. Write a short summary of what has happened in the story you are reading.
2. Make a prediction for what will happen next.
3. Write about one of the story elements listed below. Use the questions to get started writing your own thoughts about your story. Write for the entire session.

Plot
• Describe what happens in this story and tell about the reasons why.
• Who is concerned about the events in the story? What do they do about it?
• Is there a big problem or conflict in this story?
• How are events in this story similar to events in other stories you have read?
• What are some things that have happened in the story which grabbed your interest?
• How is the author building suspense or anticipation for the next event?
• Are you enjoying this story? Why or why not?
• Have you ever experienced similar events in your life?

Character
• Who are the people in the story? Which of them has a problem?
• Who hurts if the problem isn’t solved? Who is happy if the problem is solved?
• What does the main character look like? Tell about some minor characters.
• Describe personality traits of a character. What does the character say or do that reveals his or her personality?
• Is this character likeable? Why or why not? Is this someone you would be friends with? Why or why not.
• Would you make the same decisions or take the same actions the main character did if you were in the same situation? Why or why not?
• Have you ever known anyone like this character? Explain.

Setting
• Where and when does the story take place?
• Is it a happy place or a scary place or a dangerous place or a beautiful place or a mysterious place?
• What effect does the place and time have on how the story turns out?
• What is the general mood of this story? How does the author create this mood?
• Is the story location similar to where you live? How is it different?
• Would you like to live in the time and place of your story? Why or why not?

Theme
• What does the story mean to you?
• Does the author have a big idea or message to share?
• Is the theme of this book similar to themes in other stories you’ve read? Tell about them.
• What have you learned from reading this story?
• What does the story make you think about? How does it relate to your life and experiences? Does it help you understand anything about the world you live in?

Point of View
• Who’s telling the story? Is it someone outside the story or someone inside the story?
• Why do you think the author chose this point of view?

| 3 | The 3 response fully accomplishes the task requirements. It
  • includes a complete interpretation that goes beyond the text,
  • has clear logic or reasoning,
  • provides specific, relevant support from the text. |
| 2 | The 2 response adequately accomplishes the task requirements. It
  • includes an adequate interpretation,
  • may have minor flaws in logic or reasoning,
  • provides general but relevant support from the text. |
| 1 | The 1 response minimally accomplishes the task requirements. It
  • includes a minimal interpretation,
  • may have gaps in understanding or flaws in logic or reasoning,
  • may provide sparse or irrelevant support from the text. |
| 0 | The 0 response does not accomplish the task requirements. It
  • may provide no support from the text,
  • may be limited to information copied directly from the text and presented as the student’s own ideas,
  • may be incorrect or illogical. |
Interdisciplinary Unit Title: A Galactic Journey

Developed by: Sandra L. Watts

Grade Level: 8th

School: A.L. Corbett Middle School

Student Objectives:
The Learner Will Be Able To:
- establish connections across content areas.
- carry out research to enhance reading.
- The students will learn about Harriet Tubman and Peg Leg Joe and how they led the slaves to freedom by reading a picture book
- Identify Harriet Tubman and how she formed the Underground Railroad that led the slaves to freedom in the North.
- Identify Peg Leg Joe and how he led the slaves along the Underground Railroad using secret words that led them to freedom
- Identify how the Drinking Gourd/North Star helped the slaves along the Underground Railroad
- view a map of Underground Railroad routes, and explain how physical geography might have posed difficulties for slaves trying to escape;
- use the Web to research the difficulties that escaping slaves faced and the things that helped slaves make it to freedom, and take notes on what they find;
- discuss what they have found in their research
- design quilts showing the dangers that slaves faced and the things that helped them make it to freedom.

Standards Correlations for two (2) or more content areas: Science, Social Studies, and English

Duration:
6 days

Materials:
Follow the Drinking Gourd book by 9X12 sheets of black construction paper glue or glue stick white color crayon star stickers pen
Copy Paper
Per pair of students:
- Atlas with a physical map of the U.S.

Per student:
- Pencil and paper
- Data sheets

For the instructor:
- A copy of the book
- A copy of the video: Follow the Drinking Gourd
- Computer with Internet access
- Drawing materials

Procedure:

Day # 1:
1. Ask students what heroes are and who their heroes are.
2. Ask students to name some famous women heroes.
3. Introduce Harriet Tubman, the famous conductor of the Underground Railroad, and a one-legged sailor named Peg Leg Joe who taught the slaves to "Follow the Drinking Gourd" which led them to freedom in the north.
5. Post-Reading Input:
6. Create art project
   a. Fold sheet of construction paper
   b. On the cover, the students will create a title
   c. Open it up, on the top half, the students will print out the refrain from the song, "Follow the Drinking Gourd" (words will be on the board)
   d. On the bottom half, using 7 sticker stars, the students will create their own drinking gourd and connect each star using a white crayon
   e. If finished early, have students add more details using crayons

Day 2:
1. Ask students to listen carefully to the story “Follow the Drinking Gourd.”
2. On Data Sheet #1, students should write their interpretation of the first part of the song, "When the sun goes back and the first quail calls/Follow the drinking gourd/The old man is waitin' for to carry you to freedom/Follow the drinking gourd."
3. Read the book Follow the Drinking Gourd to your students. PAUSE reading the book when you get to this part of the song and discuss student ideas.
4. Ask them how was it possible for the slaves to know what was an acceptable escape route even having knowledge of the location of the North Star.
5. Continue reading from the text until you come to the second part of the song, "The riverbank will make a very good road/The dead trees show you the way/Left foot, peg foot traveling on/Following the drinking gourd."
6. PAUSE the reading of the story in order to give the students time to record their interpretations.
7. Continue to read the story until you get to the third part of the song.
8. Ask the students what they think Peg Leg Joe means when he teaches the slave the third part of the song, "The river ends between two hills/Follow the drinking gourd/There's another tree on the other side/Follow the drinking gourd."
9. STOP reading the story when you reach the third part of the song and discuss student answers.
10. Read on until the last part of the song

11. Ask the students to name the great big river and the little river that the slaves followed north to freedom. "Where the great big river meets the little river/Follow the drinking gourd/The old man is waiting for to carry you to freedom/If you follow the drinking gourd." Discuss students’ answers.

12. Ask students to consider the following questions relating to the flight and plight of the slaves. Students should record their answers on Data Sheet #2 and be prepared to defend their answers.

Day: #3:
1. Tell students to this point in the lesson, they have learned some geographic information that could have provided obstacles to the fleeing slaves.
2. Ask students what these obstacles could have been.
3. Tell students that they are going to log on to The Underground Railroad Site—Underground Railroad Routes 1860 at http://education.ucdavis.edu/NEW/STC/lesson/socstud/railroad/Map.htm
4. Ask students to compare their escape routes with the historical version found at the Web site.
5. Insert the video Look Up #5: Looking Up at the Stars into VCR.
6. Ask them what the ancestral Africans were able to see in the night sky that allowed them to link the constellations to aspects of their daily life. What are constellations?
7. PLAY the video from the segment that begins by showing the word "Constellations" on the screen. STOP the video when the stars that make up the Big Dipper appear on the screen.
8. To CHECK understanding, students will create an anchor chart on anything new they have learned about constellations from the segment of video.

Day #4:
1. Insert Starfinder #20: The Constellations into your VCR.
2. Ask them to listen carefully to the upcoming video segment and find answers to the following questions. How did the slaves know which way pointed North? How can one find the North Star in the night sky? Is there another name under which the North Star can be found?
3. START the video as the woman presenter with the night sky in the background states, "In the 1800s, before the Civil War, African-American slaves escaped to freedom under the cover of night... today on Science Links."
4. PAUSE the video when the narrator states, "The Big Dipper revolves so closely around the North Star it never goes below our horizon." A picture of the Big Dipper revolving around Earth's North Pole appears on the screen.
5. Ask them to identify how peoples of the world utilized the constellations and to record their answers on Data Sheet #5.
6. PLAY video from the previous pause point. STOP the video when the woman narrator states, "As autumn approached, the hunters killed the bear and its blood dripped to Earth onto the leaves of the trees turning them red." An autumn scene appears on the screen.
7. CHECK for student comprehension.
8. For those finishing early they may complete Data Sheet #4 for an extra grade.

Day #5:
1. Have students make charts with two columns. The first column should be labeled "Dangers They Faced" and the second column should be labeled "Things That Helped Them Out."
2. Have students go to the following Web sites to find information on the dangers the escaping slaves faced along the Underground Railroad.
   b. http://quest.arc.nasa.gov/ltc/special/mlk/gourd2.html
   c. http://www.beavton.k12.or.us/greenway/leahy/ugrr/index.htm

3. Ask the students to look for evidence of the things that helped the slaves, including quilts, songs, friendly anti-slavery people, and plain old good luck.

4. Ask students to take notes in the appropriate columns in their charts.

5. Discuss the students’ charts as a class

Day: # 6:

1. Ask students to imagine that they have successfully escaped from slavery and have completed their journey along the Underground Railroad. From their new, safe homes in Canada, they have decided to make a quilt telling other people about the dangers they faced and the people and things that helped them out.

2. Students will design quilts that contain at least six squares. Students can design the squares on pieces of felt. All quilts will be put together to make one quilt to display.

3. Students should look at the website: (for examples/ideas)
   http://www.beavton.k12.or.us/greenway/leahy/ugrr/index.htm

Assessment:

- Anchor chart
- Data Sheets #1 – 5
- Chart on Dangers They Faced and Things That Helped Them Out with notes taken from websites.
- Final Project: Quilt
Rubric for Final Project: Freedom Quilt

Making A Poster : Freedom Quilt
